"When in the Course of Human Events..."

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

Segee Destined For Long Tour As Human Guinea Pig

Mobilization

Not Considered

WASHINGTON, July 3—Defense Secretary Johnson denied today that either mobilization or a partial call-up of reserves or civilians is contemplated at this stage of the Korean struggle.

Johnson made it plain that he does not feel the present situation calls for a wartime emergency measures.

39 Nations Backing UN

MacArthur Tipped As Top General

LAKE SUCCESS, July 3—Israel and Denmark have announced their support of United Nations efforts to drive North Korean invaders back beyond the 38th Parallel.

This brought to 39 the number of UN member states which have rallied behind the Security Council's actions to restore peace in Korea, initiated by the United States.

The council is expected to meet this week, probably on Wednesday to establish a war coordinating group to link the UN directly with General Douglas MacArthur's command.

Pressure is building up at UN to strengthen the Allied cause by naming MacArthur UN generalissimo.

The three main points for this week's council agenda, to be held under the chairmanship of Arne Sundt of Norway, are:

- 1.—Establishment of a coordinating council committee or subcommittee for handling the arms aid being contributed by UN member nations and getting everything to function smoothly and speedily.
- 2.—The appointment of MacArthur as symbolic field commander, making him first UN generalissimo fighting the battle as an international policeman on behalf of UN.
- 3.—The question of using the UN flag alongside those of nations which are putting combat forces into the field. One school of thought holds that the blue and white UN flag should be flown only in "peace moves," such as negotiations for an armistice or cease-fire.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie has taken the first two initial steps to link UN closely with the field of action.

Shortly after being informed that the UN commission for Korea had arrived in South Korea, he assigned eight special military advisers to the body. They will act as "battle" observers on behalf of UN. Two officers from each of the following member nations were appointed: Canada, Australia, the Philippines and El Salvador.

In addition, Lie dispatched Col. Alfred G. Katzin of South Africa to Korea as his personal observer and as the UN official designated to maintain direct contact with military operations headquarters in South Korea.

The list, made public by Committee Chairman McFarland, (D) Ariz., pinpoints spots across the nation that receive race track odds and results by wire. This information is important to bookies who operate unlawfully in all states except Nevada.

McFarland said the chances of passing pending senate legislation to curb interstate transmission of racing news are poor unless local authorities urge Congress to act.

He added that prompt House action is necessary if the bill is to be passed this session.

Local Judge Sends Youth To Hospital

Lima Experts To Study Firebug

A 21-year-old self-confessed arsonist was among 10 persons arraigned in Pickaway County common pleas court Monday afternoon.

And when it was all over Arsonist Robert Segee had started on the first phase of his long trek toward becoming a human guinea pig in the testing laboratories of medical science.

Segee was indicted in a special session of Pickaway County grand jury on two counts of attempting to burn buildings in Circleville.

Segee was committed to Lima State hospital for a period of observation by Judge William D. Radcliff. In the absence of County Prosecutor Guy Cline, a former Pickaway County common pleas judge, Emmitt Crist, took over the duties of prosecuting attorney.

CLINE, ONE of the "four wisemen" who cracked the Segee case, left for Fort Knox, Ky., for a two-week tour of duty as a major in the Army Reserve.

The sordid saga of Segee was released in Circleville last Friday when the youth formally confessed taking at least 168 lives through arson and four or five others by strangulation with his bare hands.

The list of Segee's deeds are topped by the deaths of 168 persons in Hartford, Conn., July 6, 1944, when he set afire the big tent of Ringling Bros., Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The exposure of Segee was a story of close cooperation between four men. It started with Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Carl Radcliff, whose shrewd questioning of another arsonist produced the key to unlock the whole mystery.

He was backed by Prosecutor Cline of Ashville, legal eagle in the affair.

Hoover Report Caravan Due Here July 24

Circleville's part in a nationwide educational movement to acquaint the "man on the street" with the facts about the Hoover Commission report will take place July 24.

Arthur S. Fleming, chairman of the Ohio Citizens Committee for the Hoover report said Monday in Columbus the intensive educational program will be known as the National Reorganization Crusade.

The statewide drive will be launched Friday in Zanesville. He said the period between Friday and July 31 will be known as "reorganization month" in Ohio.

He added the special month will be highlighted by the statewide tour of a "cracker barrel caravan," a four-vehicle assembly now on a tour of the nation.

The caravan will carry speakers, motion picture equipment, a public address system and other means of explaining to citizens how they can secure a "better government at a better price."

The caravan's 19-day tour will conclude in Cincinnati July 31.

OHIO ALONE CHALKS 14 FATALITIES

Holiday Death Toll Passes 300-Mark Throughout U.S.

The death toll for the long Independence Day holiday weekend passed the 300 mark Monday.

A survey by International News Service shows: Traffic crashes accounted for 217 lives.

Drownings claimed another 62 lives, and 48 persons died in miscellaneous accidents such as plane crashes and shootings.

The National Safety Council has predicted that automobile accident deaths would claim at least 385 persons before the holiday ends officially at midnight, July 4.

Michigan led the nation in highway fatalities with 17 persons dead. Ohio has marked 12 highway deaths so far.

Last year, a three-day holiday, at least 450 persons met violent deaths. Of these nearly 290 were traffic fatalities.

This year, a four-day holiday, is expected to pile up the grim figure of 500 deaths among those celebrating the nation's Independence Day.

THE SAFETY Council estimated that approximately 36 million cars will move over the nation's highways during the 1950 holiday and will consume 370 million gallons of gasoline in rolling up 5.6 billion miles in four days.

Ned H. Dearborn, council president, offered this simple advice to motorists who hope to be alive on July 5:

"Keep your speed down, be patient and courteous, and stay alert every minute."

Generally fair and cool weather brought out huge crowds to the nation's beaches, parks, playground and other centers of amusement and recreation.

California led the states in fatalities with 21.

Deaths by fireworks were extremely rare.

Safety Council officials expressed the fear that the estimated traffic death toll of 385 may be exceeded when all the figures of accidents during the homeward rush of vacationists Tuesday evening are compiled.

A toll of 14 accidental deaths in Ohio—12 highway fatalities included—was recorded by Monday.

Two of the drivers involved in the fatalities were under 25 years of age.

One man was killed when his auto fell on top of him while he was repairing a muffler. Another man touched a high tension wire and was killed instantly.

Alvin Baker, 47, of Napoleon, was killed and his wife, Geraldine, 44, was injured Saturday in an auto accident near their home.

CARL ARMSTRONG, 36, of Darlington, Pa., and Wesley M. Mason, 36, of Linden, N. J., were killed Saturday in an auto-truck accident near East Liverpool.

Mason, a gasoline truck driver, was burned to death in the wreckage.

George F. Antonelli was electrocuted Saturday when he touched a high tension wire. He was installing an aerial on the roof of a house in the village of Delightful, near Warren.

Nineteen-year-old Donald Baker was killed Sunday when he lost control of his car and it struck a utility pole a short distance from his home in London.

George Phillip Birchfield, 15, of West Portsmouth, died of injuries he suffered Friday night in a motorcycle-auto accident three miles northwest of Portsmouth. The driver of the car, Warrne Neely, 41, of near Portsmouth, was killed when his auto fell on top of him while he was repairing a muffler. Another man touched a high tension wire and was killed instantly.

Only Safe, Sane Fourth Wanted Here By Mayor

"A safe, sane July 4. That's what we're going to have in Circleville."

Mayor Thurman I. Miller made the statement.

He added that the day has departed when Circleville citizens felt they had to celebrate the great day in riotous expenditure of explosives.

"People take a saner attitude now," said the mayor. "They have learned to celebrate the day without sacrificing fingers."

There is a ban on fireworks, the mayor pointed out, and the public has been thoroughly indoctrinated on it.

"But in spite of this," he went on, "the possibility always exists that someone will declare himself immune to bans, burns or blazes—and wind up by getting himself hurt or killed."

The mayor said that in Circleville it is up to the fire and police chiefs to secure compliance with the law by keeping fireworks suppressed.

"And I hope that when the day is over, everyone can say, 'We had a safe 4th of July,'" said the mayor.

A-Bomb Expert Says 'Use It'

ST. LOUIS, July 3—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel Prize scientist who helped perfect the atomic bomb, thinks the dreaded weapon should be used in South Korea if the military situation warrants.

Dr. Compton, chancellor of Washington university in St. Louis, expressed his views in a news conference on his return from a three-week trip through Europe.

He said the threat of a war in Germany, before the outbreak of hostilities in the Far East, was less than a year ago. Dr. Compton said the A-bomb was one of the most important deterrents to war in Europe.

YANKEE TROOPS STRAFED

Communists Forced Back Along Wide Suwon Front

TOKYO, July 3—Tank-paced Communist troops, nearing battle with U. S. infantry, were forced back tonight after thrusting pincer prongs into strategic Suwon's north and south approaches and widening the invasion front toward South Korea's east coast.

Strafing of American troops moving toward battle lines by seven Communist North Korean rocket-firing fighter planes was reported in a dispatch telephoned to Tokyo from a South Korea base.

It was the first report that the Communist airforce is using rockets.

A Reuters dispatch said the rocket-firing Communist planes inflicted the first casualties upon U. S. troops. Reuters said the seven enemy planes machine-gunned forward American positions which allegedly lacked anti-aircraft protection.

The Communist Pyongyang radio broadcast that 30 American bombers dropped 800 bombs in two raids on the North Korea Communist capital. The broadcast said the bombers struck at 6:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. and claimed that two of the American planes were shot down.

ADVANCED U. S. Army headquarters in Korea announced that the North Korean twin push on the key Suwon air base had been "stopped" by nightfall and that the enemy's Russian-made tanks in that sector had retired after an apparent armored reconnaissance in force.

The Red pressure on imperilled Suwon was thus eased, apparently by a combination of South Korean ground resistance and an American-Australian air offensive which pounded the enemy's Han river crossings and extended up into North Korea's territory itself.

During Monday's fighting the Communists had managed to shove two other armor-led columns to a point 50 miles east of Suwon—almost midway to a junction with the enemy's Samchox-Kangnung east coast invasion beachhead which was under Allied naval bombardment.

On the immediate approaches to Suwon, 22 miles south of Seoul, the Communists had driven prongs to within eight miles north and 12 miles south of the city and its air field, as American troops hurried into battle positions some miles to the south.

Indications were the U. S. infantry vanguards might enter into combat with the North Korean invaders on the Fourth of July.

2,000 Listed In Probe Of Bookie Patrons

WASHINGTON, July 3—Senate gambling probes prodded local authorities today to clean up bookmaking in 40 states by publishing the names of 2,000 subscribers to racing information services.

The list, made public by Committee Chairman McFarland, (D) Ariz., pinpoints spots across the nation that receive race track odds and results by wire. This information is important to bookies who operate unlawfully in all states except Nevada.

McFarland said the chances of passing pending senate legislation to curb interstate transmission of racing news are poor unless local authorities urge Congress to act.

He added that prompt House action is necessary if the bill is to be passed this session.

'This Is War,' Cleric Claims

COLUMBUS, July 3—A Columbus minister told his congregation yesterday "we are at war, no matter what the politicians tell you."

The Rev. Joseph A. Shellhaas, pastor of Glenwood Methodist church, pointed out that American troops are landing and are in combat in Korea. He said that "when they tell you we are not at war, they lie! This is war!"

Washington Monument Had Turbulent Building History

WASHINGTON, July 3—Every Independence Day the eyes of America turn to the Washington National Monument with special interest though some million person visit the monument throughout each year to pay tribute to George Washington, who inspired his people to a victorious freedom and unity.

This beautiful white marble memorial, which towers 555 feet into the sky over the nation's capital, however, had a long and somewhat turbulent history before it was opened to the public, Oct. 9, 1888.

The construction had been completed after years of delay by intolerance, war and depleted funds.

The Continental Congress of the United States considered a monument in honor of Washington even before his death in 1799, but it was not until 1833 that a group, under the guidance of George Waterston, Librarian of Congress, created the Washington National Monument society.

Chief Justice John Marshall was made president of this organization whose purpose it was to erect the memorial.

THOUGH CALL for subscriptions went throughout the nation less than $30,000 was collected. However, by the year 1847 the amount of $70,000 had been received, enough to begin construction of the shrine.

On July 4, 1848, exactly 55 years after George Washington had declared the cornerstone of the Capitol properly laid, the cornerstone of the Washington National Monument was set in place.

Prompted by an offer of the people of Alabama to send, in place of money, an inscribed stone for the inside of the monument, the society sent out a request for similar contributions and stones came from all over the country and even from foreign powers.

Pope Pius IX sent an inscribed marble block from the Temple of Concord at Rome, a block of stone that was destined to add another turbulent chapter to the history of the yet unfinished memorial.

As the Capital City lay in the dimness of night on March 5, 1854, a group of men subdued the night watchman who was guarding the monument, and seized the marble block reportedly smashing it to pieces, dropping the remains into the Potomac river.

THE WORLD was angered by this incident and the flow of cash ceased. The Washington National Monument society sought the aid of Congress, which assented to pass an act on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1855, providing $200,000 for the memorial's completion.

However, on the night of Feb. 21, 1855, the society's offices were broken into and records were stolen. The claim then was made that the Washington Monument was in the American party's hands and members asserted their intention to finish its construction as an "American institution." An angered Congress tabled the proposal supporting the monument.

After two years the American party (also known as the "Know Nothings") dissolved and the monumental records were returned to the original organization.

Again funds were sought, but friction between the North and South leading to the Civil War further delayed the progress.

For nearly 25 years the monument stood at a height of almost 153 feet, unfinished, deserted, a dream yet to be fulfilled.

On Aug. 2, 1876, President Ulysses S. Grant approved the construction, and four years later, amid the noise of men at work, the noble monument resumed its skyward course.

This gift should not be accepted, proclaimed members of the American party, an anti-foreign, anti-Catholic political organization. Their outcry was unheeded so they turned to violent action.

Holiday Death Toll Passes 300-Mark Throughout U.S.

The death toll for the long Independence Day holiday week-end passed the 300 mark Monday.

A survey by International News Service shows:

Drownings claimed another 62 lives, and 48 persons died in miscellaneous accidents such as plane crashes and shootings.

2,000 Listed In Probe Of Bookie Patrons

WASHINGTON, July 3—Senate gambling probes prodded local authorities today to clean up bookmaking in 40 states by publishing the names of 2,000 subscribers to racing information services.

The list, made public by Committee Chairman McFarland, (D) Ariz., pinpoints spots across the nation that receive race track odds and results by wire. This information is important to bookies who operate unlawfully in all states except Nevada.

McFarland said the chances of passing pending senate legislation to curb interstate transmission of racing news are poor unless local authorities urge Congress to act.

He added that prompt House action is necessary if the bill is to be passed this session.

Washington Monument Had Turbulent Building History

WASHINGTON, July 3—Every Independence Day the eyes of America turn to the Washington National Monument with especial interest though some million person visit the monument throughout each year to pay tribute to George Washington, who inspired his people to a victorious freedom and unity.

This beautiful white marble memorial, which towers 555 feet into the sky over the nation's capital, however, had a long and somewhat turbulent history before it was opened to the public, Oct. 9, 1888.

The construction had been completed after years of delay by intolerance, war and depleted funds.

The Continental Congress of the United States considered a monument in honor of Washington even before his death in 1799, but it was not until 1833 that a group, under the guidance of George Waterston, Librarian of Congress, created the Washington National Monument society.

Chief Justice John Marshall was made president of this organization whose purpose it was to erect the memorial.

THOUGH CALL for subscriptions went throughout the nation less than $30,000 was collected. However, by the year 1847 the amount of $70,000 had been received, enough to begin construction of the shrine.

On July 4, 1848, exactly 55 years after George Washington had declared the cornerstone of the Capitol properly laid, the cornerstone of the Washington National Monument was set in place.

Prompted by an offer of the people of Alabama to send, in place of money, an inscribed stone for the inside of the monument, the society sent out a request for similar contributions and stones came from all over the country and even from foreign powers.

Pope Pius IX sent an inscribed marble block from the Temple of Concord at Rome, a block of stone that was destined to add another turbulent chapter to the history of the yet unfinished memorial.

This gift should not be accepted, proclaimed members of the American party, an anti-foreign, anti-Catholic political organization. Their outcry was unheeded so they turned to violent action.

As the Capital City lay in the dimness of night on March 5, 1854, a group of men subdued the night watchman who was guarding the monument, and seized the marble block reportedly smashing it to pieces, dropping the remains into the Potomac river.

THE WORLD was angered by this incident and the flow of cash ceased. The Washington National Monument society sought the aid of Congress, which assented to pass an act on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1855, providing $200,000 for the memorial's completion.

However, on the night of Feb. 21, 1855, the society's offices were broken into and records were stolen. The claim then was made that the Washington Monument was in the American party's hands and members asserted their intention to finish its construction as an "American institution." An angered Congress tabled the proposal supporting the monument.

After two years the American party (also known as the "Know Nothings") dissolved and the monumental records were returned to the original organization.

Again funds were sought, but friction between the North and South leading to the Civil War further delayed the progress.

For nearly 25 years the monument stood at a height of almost 153 feet, unfinished, deserted, a dream yet to be fulfilled.

On Aug. 2, 1876, President Ulysses S. Grant approved the construction, and four years later, amid the noise of men at work, the noble monument resumed its skyward course.

epool investigator for the Ohio Arson Bureau, served as leg-man in the probe, while Dr. Higley of Columbus worked out the probable causes of Segee's actions.

In Circleville Monday officials were awaiting the reported arrival of investigators from New England.

Columbus sources said that officials from Hartford and Portland were expected to make special trips here to question Segee.

They had planned to come to Circleville over the weekend, but could not because of jammed airline seat reservations.

They pointed out that in the case of the New England fires and homicides which Segee has confessed, local investigators knew nothing about them until told by Segee himself.

The youth, while not being able to give exact names and places, nevertheless pin-pointed fires and homicides and gave some information heretofore not revealed publicly.

In Pickaway County jail, Segee was quietly questioned by the man who first cracked the case—Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff. Winning the youth's confidence, Radcliff sought to clear up certain details which have not been added to the record.

The questioning was slow and laborious. Segee claims frankly that:

Corn, Cucumbers Ready To Use In Local Area

Circleville homemakers can expect to grace their tables with homegrown sweetcorn and cucumbers in the immediate future.

Bill Collins of 822 North Court street Monday displayed mature specimens of both vegetables as he laid claim to the "first ripe" in both categories.

"I brought along the stalk to show that this is homegrown corn," Collins stated as he made the claim. He fished into his pocket to produce the cucumber, with part of the vine still trailing.

"I could pick a bushel of these right now," he added.

Collins said he planted 12 rows of sweetcorn in a garden patch at his home April 22.

Election, Service Units May Swap

Pickaway County board of elections may have new lodgings soon.

The county commissioners reported Monday that they were considering a request to switch the offices of the election board and veteran's Service Officer James P. Shea.

It was explained that the exchange of rooms will give election officials more working space. Both offices are in Pickaway Courthouse basement. Shea at present occupies two rooms, the election board one.

The commissioners said the transfer probably would be approved since the election panel generally uses Shea's office on election night.

made North Korean planes for 25 minutes this (Monday) evening, indicating the enemy was trying to soften up that town for a ground assault.

A Communist column which had outflanked Suwon on the east by racing south through the communications center of Inchon was nearing Osan when the multi-pronged enemy advance in the area was halted and pushed back.

U. S. warships, augmented by British and Australian naval vessels, ranged both the eastern and western Korean coasts, constantly on the alert for sneak attacks by submarines, the nationality of which would be difficult to detect.

It was recalled that America's naval chief, Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, estimated last February that 70 to 80 Russian submarines were based at Asiatic ports.

The airborne infantry vanguard of many thousands of American troops being rushed to Korea moved swiftly into combat positions somewhere south of Suwon, while light tanks were reportedly flown to support the foot soldiers in their approaching collision with the Red armor.

The tanks were observed racing through Tokyo streets along a route to an airfield from which war supplies have been airlifted to the Korean front.

U. S. AIRFORCE B-26s and fighter craft rained bombs, rockets and machinegun fire down upon a railroad bridge and three makeshift wooden spans over which the Communists were pouring an ever-increasing flow of troops, tanks and artillery across the Han river southward.

Simultaneously, giant American B-29 bombers, with escorts that included Australian Airforce Mustang fighters, carried the war into North Korea by smashing with heavy explosives at airfields around Yonpo following a devastating superfort raid on the airfield at Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

At Yonpo, 35 miles north of the 38th Parallel which marks the boundary between South and North Korea, the B-29s of America's 20th Airforce carried out what was officially termed an "excellent" bombing Sunday.

A Far East Airforce communiqué quoted returning pilots as saying "the entire target area was covered by smoke following the strike."

B-29 airmen returning from the previous bombing of the Pyongyang airfield said, according to the communiqué, that "at least seven aircraft had been left burning and many more, damaged, in addition to general widespread destruction inflicted upon installations as a whole."

William Hale, 27, died in Middletown hospital a few hours after his automobile went out of control, crashed through a fence and rolled over three times.

Mrs. Wanda Louise Blair, 36, of Newton Falls was killed Sunday night when the car she was driving was struck by a tractor-trailer in Warren.

County Escaping Holiday Traffic Death--So Far

Pickaway County luckily escaped serious traffic accidents last weekend as the first half of the split Independence Day holiday was completed.

Only seven minor accidents occurred here during the weekend while only one injury, minor, was reported.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells and Charles Waters investigated three of the mishaps while sheriff's deputies and Circleville police investigated two each.

The only accident in which an injury was reported occurred at about 10 p. m. Sunday on Route 22 just west of Williamsport.

Patrolman Wells said an auto driven by Joseph Natale, 28, of Monaco, Pa., was travelling west on the highway during a heavy rain.

Natale told the patrolman he had been crowded to the right by an oncoming auto. The Natale car plunged into the right-hand ditch and landed on its top on a hay rake, Wells said.

Joe Natale, 9-months-old son of the driver, suffered head bruises in the crash. Another youngster and the mother escaped injury.

Alert Officer Nabs Man For Auto Theft

A Nelsonville man was arrested here early Sunday for allegedly stealing an auto in Columbus less than an hour earlier.

Officer Mack Wise said he arrested Ernest Starling, 22, of Nelsonville, at about 12:30 a. m. Sunday when he thought the man's actions suspicious.

The officer, on foot patrol, was checking a used auto lot in an alleyway south of East Main street when an auto entered from the Court street entrance and parked.

"Three men piled out," Wise said. "I asked the driver for his license, and he got cocky with me when he failed to produce any."

"The license plate was wired onto the car," Wise said. "I marched all three men across the street to the police station. We found out that the car had been stolen from just outside Columbus at about 11:50 p. m. Saturday. We also found out that Starling's driving license had been revoked in 1949 for three years."

The officer said that the two were hitchhikers and were not involved in the theft.

Starling was taken to Columbus later to face an accusation of auto larceny.

Cycling Cops Use Bike To Turn In Fire

A "bicycle patrol" discovered a fire in a parked auto on North Western avenue at 2:15 a. m. Sunday.

Officers Mack Wise and Harold Green, returning to the police station aboard confiscated bicycles discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the rear seat of the auto was smoldering, believed the result of a misplaced cigarette. Damage was estimated at $20.

City firemen answered two other calls last weekend also.

First call came at 5:45 p. m. Saturday at Cottage Hill, just south of Huston street. Chief Wise said a grass fire was out of control along the bank adjoining the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. No damage was reported.

The other call was made at 10:30 p. m. Sunday to the home of Harry Moore, West High street, where shorted wires ignited a window blind and curtains.

Wise said the fire scorched a wall and the ceiling of the room, as well as a nearby davenport. Damage was estimated at about $300.

Monday (1:30 a. m. EST) said that "no major changes occurred on the fighting front during the day."

"The enemy attempted minor drives but has again fallen back," the official war front bulletin declared.

"The enemy tanks which were reported across the Han this morning have turned back. They were apparently only on a reconnaissance mission."

"SKIRMISHES" in battalion strength on the east flank of Suwon left the front practically unchanged from Sunday.

The field headquarters communique told of fresh Communist air attacks on Suwon Monday, saying "there was some enemy air activity" over the threatened base but that it was "no heavier than before."

None of the enemy raiders was shot down, the bulletin said. Unofficial eyewitness accounts said the rail-highway city of Osan, 12 miles south of Suwon, was "heavily strafed" by Soviet.

made North Korean planes for 25 minutes this (Monday) evening, indicating the enemy was trying to soften up that town for a ground assault.

A Communist column which had outflanked Suwon on the east by racing south through the communications center of Inchon was nearing Osan when the multi-pronged enemy advance in the area was halted and pushed back.

U. S. warships, augmented by British and Australian naval vessels, ranged both the eastern and western Korean coasts, constantly on the alert for sneak attacks by submarines, the nationality of which would be difficult to detect.

It was recalled that America's naval chief, Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, estimated last February that 70 to 80 Russian submarines were based at Asiatic ports.

The airborne infantry vanguard of many thousands of American troops being rushed to Korea moved swiftly into combat positions somewhere south of Suwon, while light tanks were reportedly flown to support the foot soldiers in their approaching collision with the Red armor.

The tanks were observed racing through Tokyo streets along a route to an airfield from which war supplies have been airlifted to the Korean front.

U. S. AIRFORCE B-26s and fighter craft rained bombs, rockets and machinegun fire down upon a railroad bridge and three makeshift wooden spans over which the Communists were pouring an ever-increasing flow of troops, tanks and artillery across the Han river southward.

Simultaneously, giant American B-29 bombers, with escorts that included Australian Airforce Mustang fighters, carried the war into North Korea by smashing with heavy explosives at airfields around Yonpo following a devastating superfort raid on the airdrome at Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

At Yonpo, 35 miles north of the 38th Parallel which marks the boundary between South and North Korea, the B-29s of America's 20th Airforce carried out what was officially termed an "excellent" bombing Sunday.

A Far East Airforce communique quoted returning pilots as saying "the entire target area was covered by smoke following the strike."

B-29 airmen returning from the previous bombing of the Pyongyang airdrome said, according to the communique, that "at least seven aircraft had been left burning and many more . . . damaged, in addition to general widespread destruction inflicted upon installations as a whole."

Lester Hayes, driver of the auto, said that the woman apparently was all right when they left Zanesville.

Hayes said that when they reached Williamsport the woman apparently was ill and they stopped to find a doctor. They were told that the nearest doctor was in New Holland.

Mrs. Wanda Louise Blair, 36, of Newton Falls was killed Sunday night when the car she was driving was struck by a tractor-trailer in Warren.

County Escaping Holiday Traffic Death—So Far

Pickaway County luckily escaped serious traffic accidents last weekend as the first half of the split Independence Day holiday was completed.

Only seven minor accidents occurred here during the weekend while only one injury, minor, was reported.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells and Charles Walters investigated three of the mishaps while sheriff's deputies and Circleville police investigated two each.

The only accident in which an injury was reported occurred at about 10 p. m. Sunday on Route 22 just west of Williamsport.

Patrolman Wells said an auto driven by Joseph Natale, 28, of Monaco, Pa., was travelling west on the highway during a heavy rain.

Natale told the patrolman he had been crowded to the right by an oncoming auto. The Natale car plunged into the right-hand ditch and landed on its top on a hay rake, Wells said.

Joe Natale, 9-months-old son of the driver, suffered head bruises in the crash. Another youngster and the mother escaped injury.

Alert Officer Nabs Man For Auto Theft

A Nelsonville man was arrested here early Sunday for allegedly stealing an auto in Columbus less than an hour earlier.

Officer Mack Wise said he arrested Ernest Starling, 22, of Nelsonville, at about 12:30 a. m. Sunday when he thought the man's actions suspicious.

The officer, on foot patrol, was checking a used auto lot in an alleyway south of East Main street when an auto entered from the Court street entrance and parked.

"Three men piled out," Wise said. "I asked the driver for his license, and he got cocky with me when he failed to produce any."

"The license plate was wired onto the car," Wise said. "I marched all three men across the street to the police station."

"We found out that the car had been stolen from just outside Columbus at about 11:50 p. m. Saturday. We also found out that Starling's driving license had been revoked in 1949 for three years."

The officer said that the two were hitchhikers and were not involved in the theft.

Starling was taken to Columbus later to face an accusation of auto larceny.

Cycling Cops Use Bike To Turn In Fire

A "bicycle patrol" discovered a fire in a parked auto on North Western avenue at 2:15 a. m. Sunday.

Officers Mack Wise and Harold Green, returning to the police station aboard confiscated bicycles discovered the fire and turned in the alarm.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the rear seat of the auto was smoldering, believed the result of a misplaced cigaret. Damage was estimated at $20.

City firemen answered two other calls last weekend also.

First call came at 5:45 p. m. Saturday at Cottage Hill, just south of Huston street. Chief Wise said a grass fire was out of control along the bank adjoining the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. No damage was reported.

The other call was made at 10:30 p. m. Sunday to the home of Harry Moore, West High street, where shorted wires ignited a window blind and curtains.

Wise said the fire scorched a wall and the ceiling of the room, as well as a nearby davenport. Damage was estimated at about $300.

‘REEDUCATION’ IS GOAL

Commiss Operate ‘Dachau’ For Catholic Clergymen

VIENNA, July 3—Few outside Czechoslovakia ever heard of St. Benedict-on-the-Horn. It is a concentration camp for 130 Roman Catholic priests.

It is being compared to Dachau—the hell pen of Nazi times—by its inmates.

St. Benedict is well-known to the Catholics of Slovakia, as infamous as St. Anton or Podolinec, where hundreds of other priests are imprisoned following a wave of midnight raids on convents and monasteries in April and May.

They were arrested, the Communist regime announced, “to halt the activities of religious orders that sheltered agents, spies and even murderers.”

To prevent “further sabotage to the state” they have been “concentrated” in confinements where they can be closely watched.

St. Benedict is one of those “concentrations” for men who dared speak their conscience. Thoroughly, unremittently, daily the state is trying to crush their will to resist and turn them out in its own regimented, impersonal mold.

This is the story told today by a 46-year-old Lazarist priest, an inmate of St. Benedict.

IT IS TOLD in a penciled scrawl on two sheets of razor-thin paper smuggled into the hands of a rare visitor and brought to Catholic church officials in Vienna.

It is vouched for as authentic by the officials who screen hundreds of refugee reports and serve as a clearing-house for religious news from behind the Iron Curtain less than 40 miles away.

The Lazarists expected the raid on their convent—one of the last to be shut down. As recounted in the letter, it came at 15 minutes after midnight on May 4.

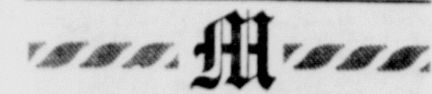

“There was a great noise before the entrance to the convent. We looked down to the street. Four big buses and a number of cars. About 70 policemen, militiamen and se-

Luxury Liner Now Labeled As Floating Nursery

PORT SAID, July 3—The Luxury Liner Atlantis is plowing through the Mediterranean Sea today headed for Rotterdam in a losing race against a heavily burdened stork. So far the stork has delivered 40 babies aboard ship.

The harrassed staff of the ship's hospital has been increased to 73 including seven doctors, but officials fear even this won't be enough for there are 211 more expectant mothers aboard.

What has turned the Royal Mail liner into a floating nursery is that it is carrying Dutch servicemen and their families home from the Far East.

2 Local Area Men Enlist For Navy Duty

Two Circleville area men, Richard A. Shoaf of Orient and Gerald L. Goldsberry of Stoutsville, are undergoing recruit training at the world's largest Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Recruit training is the sharp break between civilian and naval life in which the new Navy men learn the fundamental principles of the Naval service.

In the course of their training the recruits are taught seamanship, Navy customs, terms, basic ordnance, gunnery, signaling and navigation.

Upon completion of their training the recruits are assigned either to units of the fleet or to a service school for specialized training.

Looking Ahead With Charles Weidinger

Most of us are reluctant to face unpleasant truths. That sensitive spot on our molar is probably just a temporary irritation; that twinge of pain in the region of the heart will no doubt go away if we give it time. Too many of us put off seeing our dentist or consulting our physician for a periodic check-up. Similarly, possibility of early death is an unpleasant fact that we try hard not to think about. Yet only two categories of people can afford to disregard such a contingency—those who have no dependents and those who have made, through life insurance, sufficient provision for their loved ones against the chance of untimely death. If you cannot conscientiously claim to be in either of these categories drop me a line—or telephone.

Luxury Liner Now Labeled As Floating Nursery

PORT SAID, July 3—The Luxury Liner Atlantis is plowing through the Mediterranean Sea today headed for Rotterdam in a losing race against a heavily burdened stork. So far the stork has delivered 40 babies aboard ship.

The harassed staff of the ship's hospital has been increased to 73 including seven doctors, but officials fear even this won't be enough for there are 211 more expectant mothers aboard.

What has turned the Royal Mail liner into a floating nursery is that it is carrying Dutch servicemen and their families home from the Far East.

2 Local Area Men Enlist For Navy Duty

Two Circleville area men, Richard A. Shoaf of Orient and Gerald L. Goldsberry of Stoutsville, are undergoing recruit training at the world's largest Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Recruit training is the sharp break between civilian and naval life in which the new Navy men learn the fundamental principles of the Naval service.

In the course of their training the recruits are taught seamanship, Navy customs, terms, basic ordnance, gunnery, signaling and navigation.

Upon completion of their training the recruits are assigned either to units of the fleet or to a service school for specialized training.

During the first four days at sea 12 boys and four girls were born in rapid succession. The strain began to tell on the ship's laundry and its staff finally had to be doubled.

Looking Ahead With Charles Weidinger

Most of us are reluctant to face unpalatable truths. That sensitive spot on our molar is probably just a temporary irritation; that twinge of pain in the region of the heart will no doubt go away if we give it time. Too many of us put off seeing our dentist or consulting our physician for a periodic check-up. Similarly, possibility of early death is an unpleasant fact that we try hard not to think about. Yet only two categories of people can afford to disregard such a contingency—those who have no dependents and those who have made, through life insurance, sufficient provision for their loved ones against the chance of untimely death. If you cannot conscientiously claim to be in either of these categories drop me a line—or telephone.

AMERICANS BETTER OFF

HAVE you noticed the cost of living? If you lived in Colombia, you would really feel the difference. According to the Comptroller General of that nation, if the 1936 living cost were set at 100 points, in 1950 it would be 361.5. Our own rise is very modest in comparison. From 99.1 points in 1936, it rose in October, 1949, the latest time for which figures are available, to 160.5.

Evidently in the United States rising costs have been kept fairly in hand. In Colombia the revolutionary outbreaks may have prevented the government from keeping firm control. In any case, the inference is that with whatever ills the United States may have to contend, it is not so badly off after all.

WHY NOT OWN FORGERIES?

A PAINTING by one of the great masters which has been the pride of London's National Gallery for 126 years, has now turned out to be part forgery. Of Anthony Van Dyck's portrait of Cornelis Van der Geest, done early in the 17th century, only the head was by the master. The body was added a century later to increase the price of the picture. Discovery of the spurious addition was made by x-ray.

The experts have a hard time telling the genuine from the false. Only a few years ago a Dutchman, Hans Van Meegeren, confessed to having forged a painting by the 17th century master, Jan Vermeer of Delft. Experts had had no suspicion.

It is well known that some synthetic jewels can with difficulty be distinguished from the real. Laymen will continue to wonder: if even experts cannot detect an imitation, why is it not as good as the original?

Beauty may still be beauty, by whatever hand produced. But there is, naturally, a satisfaction in knowing the truth about the production. Letting down such bars might lead to complete deterioration of standards.

The three R's no longer constitute a proper education, says Prof. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago. Perhaps if they were really learned, as only too frequently they are not learned today, this criticism would be found unjustified.

Since it is not, apparently, to be a year of plunging economy, perhaps 1950 may go down in history as the year of the plunging neckline.

Pan Am Union's Record Economics, Cultural Tie

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Sequentennial visitors to Washington this year will reflect on the fact that for 60 of the 150 years the United States government has been along the Potomac, an inter-American organization has existed to work for better economic and cultural relations among peoples of the Americas.

Visitors will see the Pan American Union building, one of the most beautiful in Washington, standing amid its shrubs and flowers much as it has since it was dedicated 40 years ago, on April 26, 1910.

Back of it and across Virginia avenue, facing famous Constitution avenue, is a new structure, however, among beautiful Washington office buildings. On one side of the main entrance visitors will see the words, "Organization of American States," and on the other side, "Pan American Union General Secretariat."

This will remind them that one of the most important inter-American conferences since the one in 1890 was held in 1948 at Bogota, Colombia, where the Pan American Union was reorganized into the Organization of American States.

The Pan American Union remains the vital central organ of the new OAS, however, for it serves the OAS as General Secretariat. Offices of the secretary general of the OAS and of the assistant secretary general are in the Pan American Union building. The new administration building provides offices for working units, but functions dealing primarily with the public are still in the historic Pan American Union building.

Visitors find inspiration in the skylighted patio room, where colorful South American macaws sit serenely amid tropical plants surrounding a splashing fountain, while persons of many American nationalities work in offices over the building.

Some visitors find interest in the Columbus library, one of the finest libraries on inter-American subjects in the world. It remains in the Pan American Union building and is a research center on Pan Americanism.

These Days

Should a general war develop out of the Korean situation, the mobilization of the nation will have to be total. This is one fact to which our minds will have to be adjusted.

We witnessed, even in the localized Korean war, a pattern which apparently leaves little time for preparation. There was no declaration of war; no warning; no ultimatum, which is a last opportunity to compose differences. The enemy marched, fully prepared, with great speed.

Should Soviet Russia at any time decide on a general war, it will be action without notice. This, of course, violates not only international law but also human decency. But that is what we face and what we must expect. Such a war will inevitably result in the total mobilization of any nation involved in it.

Certainly, during such a period, there will be no strikes, for under those circumstances, a strike would be tantamount to a revolution. This is something to think about as our relations with Russia become more tense. The concept of total mobilization and the suspension of the right to strike are unthinkable to Americans; yet that is what a general war would mean.

It was thinking sentimentally of the strike in New York of the World-Telegram and Sun. This newspaper has suspended publication for more than a fortnight. I was, for years, part of the New York Sun and am emotionally attached to its memory. The editorial departments of the Sun never had a strike. Now the men who were incorporated in the amalgamated newspaper are involved in this new experience. It would seem that intelligent men could find a basis for composing their differences.

No matter how else it is stated, what really is involved in this strike is the right of the ownership and management of this newspaper to determine the size and character of its staff. Under the amalgamation, the staff of the newspaper became too large and it was obvious that there would have to be dismissals for reasons of economy. To this the union objects.

The question at issue is really, who is to be dismissed, old World-Telegram men or old Sun men? Dismissals are extremely ugly in the newspaper field because there are so few possibilities of finding a new job. High costs of production and a definite limit to the retail price of a newspaper and advertising rates, make it increasingly difficult to increase wages and to find additional revenue. The Sun died in the attempt.

Of course, when profits seem to be high and when prosperity is general, a strike for wages or for improved conditions, such as four weeks vacation with pay, seems to be in the order of things.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

BENEDICT called out. "Maw!" and a woman materialized from somewhere in the house; she had the long legs and long arms of her son, but there was a prim severity to her. Benedict said, "My mother. She's Kansas folks. When I became a man and owner, I sent for her. That was part of the notion. Now she keeps the victuals warm when I go on long rides." He grinned at the woman. "Could you rustle up some supper for us, Maw? And you might shake out the sheets on that spare bed. This is Doc Ives. He may be here quite a few days."

Ives said, "You mean to keep me here? In this house?"

"The jail isn't the best in the world, Doc."

Ives said, "If it had been me that turned up missing, and Cory Lund you had to collar, where would you have put him?"

"In the jail, I guess."

"Then that's where I'm going."

Benedict spread his hands. Hell, Doc, I might not have hidden away from Hammer with a whole skin today. Don't you think I know that?"

Ives said, "That doesn't matter. There's likely to be trouble enough on this range without hurrying it. What are your farmers going to say if you pamper me?" He stepped toward the door. "Do I have to lock myself up?"

Benedict said slowly, "Maybe you're right. Maybe you're right at that."

His mother said in a passionate voice, "Of course he's right."

They left the house and climbed on the horse again and rode back to the jail; grouped men watched their passing, holding silent; but the feel of them was in the air. And now Ives knew how Benedict had felt in Hammer's yard when only the signal had been needed.

The rigidity came back into Benedict, and he might have been talking to himself. He said, "Don't let it worry you. Nobody's ever tried to take a prisoner away from me. But they liked Cory a lot; you've got to know that. They liked him a lot."

Before the jail-building, Benedict untied Ives' bags from the saddle and fetched them into the office and placed them on his desk. Behind this room was another, the single cell of the jail, its barred door ajar. When Ives walked into the cell, Benedict said, "I'll go fetch you some supper. Just make yourself at home." He hesitated, looking toward his desk where a huge key lay. "If you would just give me your word—"

"Look me up," Ives said.

Benedict shut the barred door and turned the key in the lock and put the key back on his desk, and Ives watched him walk across the office and close the outer door behind him. He watched while Ives ate, standing with his shoulders against the cell wall, thoughtful and somber and grown graver since Ives had last seen him.

Benedict said, "I'll be moseying around the town, Doc. If you want anything, set up a holler. Somebody will hear you. Send him for me."

"I'll make out."

Again the door was locked, and Ives seated himself on the cot, which, with washbowl and stand, was the only furnishing of the cell. The night was coming down; a grayness invaded the cell and made its corners murky, and beyond the single barred window the sounds of the town rose, formless and without meaning. But Ives was remembering those quiet groups who had watched his passage.

An hour passed before he heard boots in the office again; it was too dark to see who entered, but it was not Benedict; Ives had learned to recognize the sheriff's walk. The man fumbled about; a match flared and was touched to the wick of a lamp on Benedict's desk, and then the man stepped to the barred door and thus standing between the lamp and Ives, he was in gaunt silhouette, a big broad-shouldered man. He said with just a trace of Scandinavian accent, "You're Doc Ives?"

"Yes," he said, "I'm Ives."

"I'm Elissa Lund."

Only the barred door was between them, and the key was there on the desk. Ives thought: Did he leave the key lying around so anybody could pick it up and pay me a visit? And then he understood. That was exactly what Rod Benedict had done, but the key was for Hammer if Hammer came to try.

Selecting Chair for Invalid

By HERMAN M. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN the need for a wheel chair arises, a great many more factors must be taken into consideration than merely the necessity of getting the patient from place to place. It is likely to be an expensive purchase and should not be ordered on impulse. If it is to serve an invalid properly, it must be geared to his particular needs.

Of first consideration is the size of the user and his type of disability. Next, some thought should be given as to where it is to be used—whether in the home, in an institution, or merely for trips outdoors.

Varied Purposes

The collapsible type of chair is most likely to serve varied purposes. In every case it should be one which can be managed easily by the patient. The frame should be light, chromium-plated metal, and the back and seat made of fabric. The driving wheels should be quite large, and controlled by a brake. There are several stock models of the vehicle, and these can be modified to provide hand-rests, zippered back, desk-type arms, and other such features. Such chairs are neat and comfortable, are easily maneuvered in a small space, and can be transported in a car.

It is suggested that for the outdoor type, the propelling wheels should be in the rear, having a diameter of 24 inches. The front wheel should be 8 inches in diameter. Tires may be either pneumatic or made of solid rubber.

Indoor Chair

The indoor chair should have large front wheels placed near the center of the chair. This will permit an almost complete pivot in a small space, and allow for easy movement in small rooms and crooked passageways.

In selecting the chair to be used, the disability of the patient must be considered. For example, if the trunk muscles are weak, it may be necessary to reach the hand rims by leaning backward rather than forward. In this type of chair, therefore, the wheels should be behind.

Special Type

There is also a special type of chair for people who have lost both legs. In order to balance the weight of the trunk, the propelling wheels are in the rear and further back than usual. Of course, the foot-rests in this type of chair would be omitted, and the front casters would be placed further forward. All chairs should have a hand-brake to prevent rolling down inclines.

A sapper in the back of the chair permits the patient to slide easily from the chair to the bed or to the toilet.

It is, therefore, very important, when a wheel chair is required, to determine exactly the type of chair best suited to the individual case, and not simply to go to the store or to the telephone and order a "wheel chair."

Treatment depends upon the cause of the condition.

You should consult a physician who will determine the cause and prescribe the proper treatment.

Sixty Years' Co-operation Union Works for Better
Pan Am Union's Record Economics, Cultural Tie

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Sixty years ago, the United States government has been along the Potomac, an inter-American organization has existed to work for better economic and cultural relations among peoples of the Americas.

Visitors will see the Pan American Union building, one of the most beautiful in Washington, standing amid its shrubs and flowers much as it has since it was dedicated 40 years ago, on April 26, 1910.

Back of it and across Virginia avenue, facing famous Constitution avenue, is a new structure, however, among beautiful Washington office buildings. On one side of the main entrance visitors will see the words, "Organization of American States," and on the other side, "Pan American Union General Secretariat."

This will remind them that one of the most important inter-American conferences since the one in 1890 was held in 1948 at Bogota, Colombia, where the Pan American Union was reorganized into the Organization of American States.

The Pan American Union remains the vital central organ of the new OAS, however, for it serves the OAS as General Secretariat. Offices of the secretary general of the OAS and of the assistant secretary general are in the Pan American Union building. The new administration building provides offices for working units, but functions dealing primarily with the public are still in the historic Pan American Union building.

Visitors find inspiration in the skylighted patio room, where colorful South American macaws sit serenely amid tropical plants surrounding a splashing fountain, while persons of many American nationalities work in offices over the building.

Some visitors find interest in the Columbus library, one of the finest libraries on inter-American subjects in the world. It remains in the Pan American Union building and is a research center on Pan Americanism.

These Days

Should a general war develop out of the Korean situation, the mobilization of the nation will have to be total. This is one fact to which our minds will have to be adjusted.

We witnessed, even in the localized Korean war, a pattern which apparently leaves little time for preparation. There was no declaration of war; no warning; no ultimatum, which is a last opportunity to compose differences. The enemy marched, fully prepared, with great speed.

Should Soviet Russia at any time decide on a general war, it will be action without notice. This, of course, violates not only all international law but also human decency. But that is what we face and what we must expect. Such a war will inevitably result in the total mobilization of any nation involved in it.

Certainly, during such a period, there will be no strikes, for under those circumstances, a strike would be tantamount to a revolution. This is something to think about as our relations with Russia become more tense. The concept of total mobilization and the suspension of the right to strike are unthinkable to Americans; yet that is what a general war would mean.

It was thinking sentimentally of the strike in New York of the World-Telegram and Sun. This newspaper has suspended publication for more than a fortnight. I was, for years, part of the New York Sun and am emotionally attached to its memory. The editorial departments of the Sun never had a strike. Now the men who were incorporated in the amalgamated newspaper are involved in this new experience. It would seem that intelligent men could find a basis for composing their differences.

No matter how else it is stated, what really is involved in this strike is the right of the ownership and management of this newspaper to determine the size and character of its staff. Under the amalgamation, the staff of the newspaper became too large and it was obvious that there would have to be dismissals for reasons of economy. To this the union objects.

The question at issue is really, who is to be dismissed, old World-Telegram men or old Sun men? Dismissals are extremely ugly in the newspaper field because there are so few possibilities of finding a new job. High costs of production and a definite limit to the retail price of a newspaper and advertising rates, make it increasingly difficult to increase wages and to find additional revenue. The Sun died in the attempt.

Of course, when profits seem to be high and when prosperity is general, a strike for wages or for improved conditions, such as four weeks vacation with pay, seems to be in the order of things.

SHADOW on the RANGE

by NORMAN A. FOX

SYNOPSIS

Journeying along Somers Range to Hammer, the Carradine come, young Doctor Ives is shot from ambush and rescued by a doctor named Ives. Marybelle Lund, a nurse, has come some distance of averting war between the big and owners, led by Colonel Carradine, and these invading farmers.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

and a woman materialized from somewhere in the house; she had the long legs and long arms of a woman, but there was a prim severity to her. Benedict said: "My mother. She's Kansas folks. When I became a land owner, I sent for her. That was part of the notion. Now she keeps the victuals warm when I go on long rides." He grinned at the woman. "Could you rustle up some supper for us, Maw? And you might shake out the sheets on that spare bed. This is Doc Ives. He may be here quite a few days."

Ives said: "You mean to keep me here?"

"In this house?"

"The jail isn't the best in the world, Doc."

Ives said: "If it had been me that turned up missing, and Cory Lund had to collar, where would you have put him?"

"In the jail, I guess."

"Then that's where I'm going."

Benedict spread his hands. Hell, Doc, I might not have ridden away from Hammer with a whole skin today. Don't you think I know that?"

Ives said: "That doesn't matter. There's likely to be trouble enough on this range without hurrying it. What are your farmers going to say if you pumper me?"

He stepped toward the door. "Do I have to lock myself up?"

Benedict said slowly: "Maybe you're right. Maybe you're right at that."

His mother said in a passionless voice: "Of course he's right."

They left the house and climbed on the horse again and rode back to the jail; grouped men watched their passing, holding silent; but the feel of them was in the air. And now Ives knew how Benedict had felt in Hammer's yard when only the signal had been needed.

The rigidity came back into Benedict, and he might have been talking to himself. He said: "Don't let it worry you. Nobody's ever tried to take a prisoner away from me. But they liked Cory a lot; you've got to know that. They liked him a lot."

Before the jail-building, Benedict untied Ives' bags from the saddle and fetched them into the office and placed them on his desk. Behind this room was another, the single cell of the jail, its barred door ajar. When Ives walked into the cell, Benedict said: "I'll go fetch you some supper. Just make yourself at home." He hesitated, looking toward his desk where a huge key lay. "If you would just give me your word—"

"Lock me up," Ives said.

Benedict shut the barred door and turned the key in the lock and put the key back on his desk, and Ives watched him walk across the office and close the outer door behind him quietly. Within a half an hour, Benedict was back, bearing a tray. He watched while Ives ate, standing with his shoulders against the cell wall, thoughtful and somber and grown graver since Ives had last seen him.

Benedict said: "I'll be moseying around the town, Doc. If you want anything, set up a holler. Somebody will hear you. Send him for me."

"I'll make out."

Again the door was locked, and Ives seated himself on the cot, which, with washbowl and stand, was the only furnishing of the cell. The night was coming down; a grayness invaded the cell and made its corners murky, and beyond the single barred window the sounds of the town rose, formless and without meaning. But Ives was remembering those quiet groups who had watched his passage.

An hour passed before he heard boots in the office again; it was too dark to see who entered, but it was not Benedict; Ives had learned to recognize the sheriff's walk. The man fumbled about; a match flared and was touched to the wick of a lamp on Benedict's desk, and then the man stepped to the barred door and thus standing between the lamp and Ives, he was in gaunt silhouette, a big broad-shouldered man. He said with just a trace of Scandinavian accent, "You're Doc Ives?"

"Yes," he said, "I'm Ives."

"I'm Elissa Lund."

Only the barred door was between them, and the key was there on the desk. Ives thought: Did he leave the key lying around so anybody could pick it up and pay me a visit? And then he understood. That was exactly what Rod Benedict had done, but the key was for Hammer if Hammer came to try.

easy movement in small rooms and crooked passageways.

In selecting the chair to be used, the disability of the patient must be considered. For example, if the trunk muscles are weak, it may be necessary to reach the hand rims by leaning backward rather than forward. In this type of chair, therefore, the wheels should be behind.

Special Type

There is also a special type of chair for people who have lost both legs. In order to balance the weight of the trunk, the propelling wheels are in the rear and further back than usual. Of course, the foot-rests in this type of chair would be omitted, and the front casters would be placed further forward. All chairs should have a hand-brake to prevent rolling down inclines.

A slipper in the back of the chair permits the patient to slide easily from the chair to the bed or to the toilet.

It is, therefore, very important, when a wheel chair is required, to determine exactly the type of chair best suited to the individual case, and not simply to go to the store or to the telephone and order a "wheel chair."

Treatment depends upon the cause of the condition.

You should consult a physician who will determine the cause and prescribe the proper treatment.

By BILLY ROSE

The other day I got the following letter from a lady who is convalescing in a Montreal hospital:

Dear Mr Rose:

Three weeks ago I was operated on for a leg infection, and since then I've been taking it easy, a little too sick to leave the hospital and a little too well to keep from having the fidgets. Consequently, I've been something of a busybody, wandering around rooms and corridors and passing the time of day with other patients. During my wheelchair travels I happened to come across a story which you might like to use in your column.

It has to do with a black lace negligee that I got for Christmas a couple of years ago—one of those lovely bits of peek-a-boo that every woman adores.

Unfortunately, however, I'm more the pajama type, and so ever since I got it it's been packed away in a bureau drawer.

When I was rushed to the hospital last month, my sister stuffed everything that looked like bed-apparel into a valise and brought it around to my room, and sure enough, on top was the negligee. And sure enough again, it went right back into a bureau, this time a white one.

Recently, however, I finally got to use the negligee, and the way it happened was like this. A few doors down the corridor from me there was a Mrs. Benoise who was suffering from a disease with a long Latin name that I can't even remember, but what it amounted to was a creeping paralysis which had started at her toes, worked its way up to her abdomen and was steadily moving toward the heart.

AND AS IF THAT weren't enough trouble, shortly after the woman had checked into the hospital her husband had been badly hurt in an auto crash—he had driven his car head-on into a truck which was parked without lights.

Last week when the paralysis got up to within inches of Mrs. Benoise's heart the doctors decided to let the couple see each other for what would probably be the last time. I was in Mrs. Benoise's room when they told her about the visit, but instead of peeping her up it seemed to make her more miserable than ever. When I asked her what was "Beauty may said it was probably hand produced," I knew she looked at her satisfaction in her production. Letting Face lead to complete dards.

West Canada Behind In Grain Crop Growing

WASHINGTON, July 3—Crops in the fertile grainlands of Western Canada are generally behind schedule this Summer and face an insect invasion like that threatened in the United States.

The season has been unusually late for Canada. After the Winter breakup, temperatures generally were well below normal and planting did not begin full tilt until mid-May in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

It has been very dry in Alberta, with rainfall only about half of normal since the first of April. Dry weather has hit Saskatchewan too, but moisture has been sufficient in Manitoba.

Wireworm damage to crops is reported severe in the open prairie of Saskatchewan. Grasshoppers are continuing to do damage, and are expected to increase greatly in numbers.

Lad, 19, Dies In Car Crash

LONDON, July 3 — Funeral services will be conducted here at 2 p. m. tomorrow for 19-year-old Donald F. Baker who was killed yesterday in an auto accident.

London police said the youth lost control of his car and it struck a utility pole. Baker was an employee of a furnace company in Columbus.

Just a reminder, girls, that a depilatory (hair remover) is a top essential in the bathing suit season—for underarm use and for legs if necessary. They're all-important aids to good grooming, not cosmetics.

Nothing removes hair permanently except electrolysis. Fuzz reappears gradually, because every other hair remover has a temporary effect, some a little more lasting than others, depending on how closely to the skin they remove the unwanted hair. One method—wax—gradually lessens the growth for the fuzz is thinner and finer after each wax treatment. Others do not retard growth in any way—merely remove hair temporarily. They are:

1. Wax—Creamy wax melted and applied to the hair, then snapped off, quickly removes hair from the roots. Do it yourself or have it done in a beauty shop. It takes longer than other methods, but lasts longer—several weeks, depending on the individual. For arms, legs, face, not under arms.

2. Razor—Quickest, but a bristly regrowth reappears in a few days. Must be used frequently and with much care. For underarms, legs.

3. Cream or creamy lotion—These are quick, easy and remove the hair a little below the surface of the skin, so the regrowth is slower in reappearing than when a razor is used. These are the best of the "quickies," not messy to use. The lotion is

As we celebrate our Independence Day at the half-century, let us pause briefly to evaluate the MIRACLE that is America! Let us examine the record . . . which is unequalled by any other political or economic system on the face of the earth. During the past fifty years this country has increased its machine power 4½ times; we have more than doubled the output each of us produces for each hour worked. Yet, our annual INCOME per household has been increased from less than $2400 to about $4000 (in dollars of the same purchasing power) and . . . we have cut 18 hours from our average work-week, equal to about 2 FULL DAYS.

This composite result . . . with the unequalled living standard it has produced . . . has come from our own particular combination of FREEDOM, COMPETITION and OPPORTUNITY. Local Brothers Meet In Japan

Two Circleville brothers met in Japan for the first time in two years recently.

They are U. S. Army Corporal William D. and Private First Class Jack Fowler, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler of Dearborne avenue. Both entered the Army in 1948, and have been stationed in Japan. They met in Camp McGill, Japan.

HALF A CENTURY AGO, Victor C. Kuenzel, 70, was best man at the wedding of Mrs. Clara Belle Albert, 69. She's been a widow for 15 years and he's been a widower for one year. Recently Kuenzel, attending the Shrine Convention in Los Angeles, again met Mrs. Albert. They decided to get married and here Kuenzel signs the marriage license. (International)

Radio Station To Hit Hard At Iron Curtain

NEW YORK, July 3—Radio Free Europe, a new broadcasting service designed to pierce the Iron Curtain, will begin operations tomorrow from a transmitter somewhere in Western Europe.

The new service will broadcast "the true story of Democracy and freedom" to the Soviet satellite nations.

It was established by the National Committee for Free Europe, a group of private American citizens.

The location of the new transmitter—RFE—will be kept secret to prevent Russian stations from jamming its programs for as long as possible.

Frank Altschul, chairman of the NCFE radio committee, said it will not compete with the Voice of America and added, "but our broadcasts will hit Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no charge for the inspection, and if your property is not infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment. This is guaranteed for TEN YEARS. Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part-time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning. The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the company doing the job be AVAILABLE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD. Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it. We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

Oakland Players

CHICAGO, July 3—The Chicago White Sox have announced the release of infielder Al Kozar to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour option to make room for Outfielder Mike McCormick.

Kozar was obtained by the White Sox May 30 in a six-player deal with Washington.

McCormick, due to report to the White Sox from the Oakland club today, was purchased to strengthen the right-handed batting power of the Chicago nine.

2 County Boys

To Be Sent To Jaycee Tourney

Two Pickaway County boys are expected to compete in the Ohio Jaycee amateur golf tournament July 21 in Norwood, near Cincinnati.

The state junior golf tournament is open to boys from 12 to 19 years old who are sponsored by their local Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Circleville Jaycees plan to send two boys to the state junior contest following a local elimination July 15 at Pickaway Country Club.

The local contest will be supervised by Ed Amey, manager-pro of the Pickaway Course.

Amey said the eligibility rules require that the contestants be from 12-19 years old, while boys who have attained their 19th birthday after July 15 will not be eligible.

"So far we have 19 boys lined up for our tournament here," Amey said. "We will be permitted to send two boys to the state tournament if we have more than 21 boys participating."

But when the cost of war is added to taxes and the stock market drops and confidence chills, and simultaneously costs go up, an atmosphere of uncertainty develops which is frightening to anyone who has to keep a balance sheet in the black. A dip of two or three percent in revenue would embarrass New York newspapers even at current costs.

What is true of these newspapers is also true of other businesses, particularly small ones, which lack diversity of product and wide margins of activity. A strike at such a time is uneconomic not only for management but for those who work for wages. Increasing costs can force such businesses to fold.

It would seem that this is a sound time to work out more cooperative methods that produce a just solution to current problems without forcing enterprises out of business. Certainly, an intelligent and patriotic approach to the problem must relate itself to the balance sheet. An enterprise cannot carry a greater load than its income under competent management permits. A one-product enterprise can have a ceiling of earnings. When that ceiling is being approached, the enterprise is imperiled. And the jobs are being endangered.

In the New York newspaper strike, both the enterprise and the jobs are imperiled. When the Sun died, many fine newspapermen were put out of jobs, and some had to take work in businesses to which they have never been accustomed and often at reduced pay. That experience need not be duplicated.

Oakland Players

CHICAGO, July 3—The Chicago White Sox have announced the release of infielder Al Kozar to Oakland of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour option to make room for Outfielder Mike McCormick.

Kozar was obtained by the White Sox May 30 in a six-player deal with Washington.

McCormick, due to report to the White Sox from the Oakland club today, was purchased to strengthen the right-handed batting power of the Chicago nine.

2 County Boys To Be Sent To Jaycee Tourney
Two Pickaway County boys are expected to compete in the Ohio Jaycee amateur golf tournament July 21 in Norwood, near Cincinnati.

The state junior golf tournament is open to boys from 12 to 19 years old who are sponsored by their local Junior Chambers of Commerce.

Circleville Jaycees plan to send two boys to the state junior contest following a local elimination July 15 at Pickaway Country Club.

The local contest will be supervised by Ed Amey, manager-pro of the Pickaway Course.

Amey said the eligibility rules require that the contestants be from 12-19 years old, while boys who have attained their 19th birthday after July 15 will not be eligible.

"So far we have 19 boys lined up for our tournament here," Amey said. "We will be permitted to send two boys to the state tournament if we have more than 21 boys participating."

THE LOCAL TEST will be a 36-hole medal match scheduled to begin at about 8 a. m. July 10. Medalist of the match and runnerup will enter the state match if enough lads

3,167,326 Fans Ballot For All-Star Participants

CHICAGO, July 3—Obviously, 3,167,326 American can't be wrong.

The final fan-vote for the 17th annual All-Star baseball game in Chicago one week from tomorrow says that the best eight of each league were nominated for the opening lineups.

But the suspicion arises that the National League, in its periodic jousts with the American League, is just naturally consistent—wrong practically all the time.

Call it either wrong or unlucky, and you'll still have a National League that's ordained to open against the American with two leftfielders, one right fielder, its star centerfielder on first base and its star first baseman on the bosom of his pants in the dugout.

But that's a slight improvement over last time when, in a moment of aberration, a crazed young lady on Chicago's north side shot Eddie Waitkus without waiting to be formally introduced.

Waitkus wound up in the hospital, and his league with a couple of guys who played the bag like they were wearing linen's caulk and wanted to climb lost its 12th game in 16 inter-league meetings by a score of 11-7.

THIS TIME, however, the league at least will have the benefit of an un-shot first baseman—after the first three innings.

It remains to be seen whether, by that time, the insertion of Waitkus at first base and the shifting of Stan Musial to centerfield will be too late.

It could be with Hank Sauer and Ralph Kiner flanking Enos Slaughter in the outfield.

Slaughter, the club pro around anybody's ballfield, is nonetheless a right fielder of long standing, and even if he can play a chukker or so of centerfield, hasn't proved it in a long time. He'll have to for at least three innings in Comiskey Park July 11.

He'll have to, in fact, if only to keep Sauer and Kiner far enough apart to avert serious consequences to both.

Three innings of that kind ought to be enough for an American League, which features the long ball and lofty fly. Anyhow, they were almost enough a year ago in Ebbets Field where Johnny Mize waddled out to first base, dropped the first ball thrown at him, and four unearned AL runs followed.

Later, the National went ahead at 5-4 in the third, only to have Gil Hodges, an ex-catcher, take up his splay-footed stance at the bag in the first half of the fourth.

With two on, Eddie Joost fozzled one off the end of his bat right at Hodges who played it in a manner reminding of Frick and Frack, the humoresquins of the ice.

Which is to say that the mound "played" Gil for a popfly infield single, two runs scored and the ball game, to every possible intent, was over.

They called it a comedy of errors with the National establishing an all-star record at five.

Starting lineups for the annual All-Star baseball game included today players from nine clubs in the two major leagues.

AMERICAN baseball enthusiasts from as far away as Japan, Greece and Switzerland cast ballots for their favorite players.

Lineup for the American League team to be directed by New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel, with their batting averages comprises:

1b—Walter Droy, Boston .343
2b—Bobby Doerr, Boston .294
3b—George Kell, Detroit .372
ss—Phil Rizzuto, New York .317 of—Ted Williams, Boston .326 of—Walter Evers, Detroit .351 of—Larry Doby, Cleveland .371
c—Yogi Berra, New York .291

The National League starters, with Brooklyn Manager Burt Shotton as pilot, are:

1b—Stan Musial, St. Louis .351
2b—Jackie Robinson, Bklyn .378
3b—Willie Jones, Phila. .302
ss—Marty Marion, St. Louis .361 of—Enos Slaughter, St. L. .332 of—Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh .278 of—Hank Sauer, Chicago .307
c—Roy Campanella, Bklyn. .311

Pitchers are to be selected by the managers.

Leading individual vote getter in the All-Star poll was Third Baseman Kell, who had 1,132,954. The Detroit infielder was American League batting champion in 1949.

Second place in balloting went to Robinson, National League leading hitter and most valuable player last season, with 1,061,522. Williams and Musial were third and fourth.

Only Kell and Williams participated in last year's All-Star contest.

Louis Ready For Golf Test

CLEVELAND, July 3—Joe Louis, "retired" world's heavyweight boxing champion, will face Clarence Watson of Cleveland today, but Watson doesn't have to worry—Joe won't handle him with boxing gloves.

Louis and Watson meet in the semifinal match in the amateur division of the fourth annual Sixth City Golf Tournament in Cleveland.

But boxing's ex-king isn't a pushover on the links. He won amateur honors last year.

No program is scheduled for Tuesday in the Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program.

15-Pound Cat Taken Sunday In Deercreek

Sunday's 45 inch of rain not only was good for the corn and rhubarb—it didn't hurt fishing a bit.

Carleton Thomas and Henry Jones, both of Half avenue, were proudly exhibiting a 15-pound marble head catfish Monday taken after the rainfall.

Thomas said he and Jones landed the cat on a trotline from Deercreek—"just below Williamsport."

"We must have hooked a big one last week," the fisherman expanded, "broke our 150-pound test line near the bank."

The men said the 15-pounder they took Sunday night bit on a small chub.

USGA Golfing Tourney Opens

LOUISVILLE, July 3—The U. S. Golf Association's 25th annual links tournament opens here today on the Seneca course with a starting field of 209.

Two former champions will compete in the man-to-man tourney. They are Kenneth Towns of San Francisco, last year's winner, and Andy Swedok of Pittsburgh, who triumphed in 1939.

The individual competition pattern follows that now adopted by the USGA in its amateur tournament, to be played in Minneapolis next month.

Patrolmen To Be Sharply Alert Over Fourth Of July

Local Aides Getting No Vacation

Safety Tips Are Outlined

The Ohio State Highway Patrol is requesting an all-out effort to make the Fourth of July a safe holiday.

The two local patrolmen, Clyde Wells and Charles Waters, will have no vacation Tuesday. Few other men in the state department will have one either.

Even men who normally are "desk jockies" and record clerks will be out on the highways.

The patrolmen declared that deaths and injuries on the streets and highways are unnecessary if safe driving practices are followed.

They pointed out that "you should be certain that your car is mechanically safe—start earlier, giving yourself plenty of time—don't hurry—obey all traffic rules and regulations—be extremely alert for the other drivers' mistakes—don't try to mix drinking and driving—it won't work. Remember that accidents don't happen; they are caused."

Wells and Waters recalled that collisions over the holiday period a year ago claimed the lives of 11 persons killed and 210 injured in 299 reported smashups on the rural highways. They pointed out that if "you must leave the comforts of your home to drive that you use common sense, extra care and courtesy—that your safety and the safety of others depends on how safely you drive."

THE ENTIRE FORCE of the highway patrol will be on duty over the holiday in order to assist motorists and to reduce as far as possible, speeding and reckless driving which causes many very serious accidents.

Should tragedy strike this Fourth of July on the rural highways, motorists should notify the closest state highway patrol post at once. Delay in summoning sometimes costs a life that otherwise might be saved.

Then they said: "Don't make your steering wheel a wheel of chance—because you bet your life!"

That advice was quoted from the National Safety Council as the nation approached the Fourth, one of the most dangerous days of the year.

With traffic fatalities on the increase this year—up nine percent so far—the council is coordinating a nationwide campaign to hold down the usual upsurge in Independence Day accidental deaths.

Last Fourth of July almost 700 persons were killed by accidents of all kinds during the three-day holiday. Many more died later as the result of injuries received during the celebration. Traffic accidents were the chief killer, alone accounting for about 300 deaths.

The council expects more pleasure-seeking motorists to pile into more cars and roll up more miles on this holiday than ever before in the country's history. More than 36 million motor vehicles will be on the move before the four-day vacation ends.

The increasing number of new cars on the road and the substantial rise in gasoline consumption this year indicate a heavy death toll—unless everyone is fully aware of the holiday hazards and makes a real effort to avoid them.

As Wells said: "If everyone would keep in mind the words 'Take It Easy on the Fourth—Be Alive on the Fifth,' this Fourth of July would bring much less tragedy and much more pleasure."

Portsmouth Eyes New Polio Case

PORTSMOUTH, July 3—Three Portsmouth homes are under quarantine today as the result of a serious polio case discovered in another Portsmouth home.

Dr. C. W. Wendelken, Portsmouth health commissioner, said seven-year-old Oliver H. Morrow Jr. has been taken to Children's hospital in Columbus for treatment of a polio condition which has paralyzed his throat.

The health commissioner said the child's two sisters have been placed under observation, and the children he was associated with before his condition was known have been placed under precautionary quarantine.

FBI Is Asked To Hunt Man In Morals Probe

PORTSMOUTH, July 3—The FBI has been asked today to join in a search for one of two men who allegedly abducted a 16-year-old Tongs, Ky., girl and held her prisoner for a month.

The girl was identified by Sheriff Burl Justice of Scioto County as Betty Jean Martin. The sheriff found the girl late Saturday in West Portsmouth.

He said the girl identified her abductors as Everett Scaggs, 23, and Ernest Riley, 33, both of Tongs. The girl told Sheriff Justice that Scaggs forced her to have improper relations with him.

Riley was arrested last night, but Scaggs was reported by the girl to have fled to Texas. Under a threat of death, the men allegedly took the girl to Siloam and Greenup, Ky., and Portsmouth, Delaware and Mansfield, O.

Riley said the girl accompanied them voluntarily. He said she was "in love" with Scaggs and when they returned her to her home she refused to leave the car. Riley said he and Scaggs finally left the girl with her relatives in Willmore, Ky. He denied that either he or Scaggs had intimate relations with the girl.

Riley voluntarily accompanied Greenup County Sheriff Brock Large before Judge William Adkins in Greenup to face a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Scaggs is wanted on a similar charge.

20 Are Injured As Bus Upsets

BOWLING GREEN, July 3—Twenty persons were injured yesterday near here when a Columbus-to-Detroit Greyhound bus overturned.

The driver, James Charles Riddle, 29, of Detroit, told state highway patrolmen he was attempting to negotiate a short curve on a downgrade when the bus swerved to the left side of the road and struck a culvert. The vehicle skidded to the side and overturned.

The bus was 11 miles from Bowling Green when the accident occurred. It was the second of three sections which left Columbus at 4:25 a. m. and was running an hour behind schedule because of the heavy influx of holiday travelers.

And He Never Saw The Game

CLEVELAND, July 3—That old saw about haste making waste haunted Earl Stanton today.

Stanton, enroute from his Canton home to the ball game in Cleveland Stadium yesterday, blazed a trail down Route 21 with police cruisers from four suburbs—Brecksville, Independence, Cuyahoga Heights and Newburgh Heights.

Stanton was taken back to jail in three of the four suburbs to face speeding charges after being halted by Police Chief Frank W. Novak of Newburgh Heights.

The Canton motorist is scheduled to complete his itinerary to Brecksville authorities today.

Political Tiff Being Aired At VFW Confab

COLUMBUS, July 3—Results of a political squabble within the ranks of the delegates attending the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention here will be determined today.

A rollcall will be made to determine whether Akron or Cincinnati will be the site of the 1951 convention.

George E. Tyack, Columbus attorney and encampment general committee chairman, yesterday broke a precedent by openly announcing his candidacy for the department commander's post.

The office now held by John H. Ende of Akron should, by general practice, go to I. F. Judkins of Lima, the senior vice-commander.

However, Tyack and his supporters claim that Judkins is "tied up politically" with the faction which seeks to have the 1951 convention in Akron.

Tyack contended that Judkins had refused to give the assurance that he would not favor Akron in his appointments. Tyack asserted:

"We feel there is an unhealthy concentration of power in and around Akron. Last year, we lost approximately 7,000 members because of it."

The Ohio State Highway Patrol is requesting an all-out effort to make the Fourth of July a safe holiday.

The two local patrolmen, Clyde Wells and Charles Waters, will have no vacation Tuesday. Few other men in the state department will have one either.

Even men who normally are "desk jockies" and record clerks will be out on the highways.

The patrolmen declared that deaths and injuries on the streets and highways are unnecessary if safe driving practices are followed.

They pointed out that "you should be certain that your car is mechanically safe—start earlier, giving yourself plenty of time—don't hurry—obey all traffic rules and regulations—be extremely alert for the other drivers' mistakes—don't try to mix drinking and driving—it won't work. Remember that accidents don't happen; they are caused."

Wells and Waters recalled that collisions over the holiday period a year ago claimed the lives of 11 persons killed and 210 injured in 299 reported smashups on the rural highways. They pointed out that if "you must leave the comforts of your home to drive that you use common sense, extra care and courtesy—that your safety and the safety of others depends on how safely you drive."

THE ENTIRE FORCE of the highway patrol will be on duty over the holiday in order to assist motorists and to reduce as far as possible, speeding and reckless driving which causes many very serious accidents.

Should tragedy strike this Fourth of July on the rural highways, motorists should notify the closest state highway patrol post at once. Delay in summoning sometimes costs a life that otherwise might be saved.

Then they said: "Don't make your steering wheel a wheel of chance—because you bet your life!"

That advice was quoted from the National Safety Council as the nation approached the Fourth, one of the most dangerous days of the year.

With traffic fatalities on the increase this year—up nine percent so far—the council is coordinating a nation wide campaign to hold down the usual upsurge in Independence Day accidental deaths.

Last Fourth of July almost 700 persons were killed by accidents of all kinds during the three-day holiday. Many more died later as the result of injuries received during the celebration. Traffic accidents were the chief killer, alone accounting for about 300 deaths.

The council expects more pleasure-seeking motorists to pile into more cars and roll up more miles on this holiday than ever before in the country's history. More than 36 million motor vehicles will be on the move before the four-day vacation ends.

The increasing number of new cars on the road and the substantial rise in gasoline consumption this year indicate a heavy death toll—unless everyone is fully aware of the holiday hazards and makes a real effort to avoid them.

As Wells said: "If everyone would keep in mind the words 'Take It Easy on the Fourth—Be Alive on the Fifth,' this Fourth of July would bring much less tragedy and much more pleasure."

Portsmouth Eyes New Polio Case

PORTSMOUTH, July 3—Three Portsmouth homes are under quarantine today as the result of a serious polio case discovered in another Portsmouth home.

Dr. C. W. Wendelken, Portsmouth health commissioner, said seven-year-old Oliver H. Morrow Jr. has been taken to Children's hospital in Columbus for treatment of a polio condition which has paralyzed his throat.

The health commissioner said the child's two sisters have been placed under observation, and the children he was associated with before his condition was known have been placed under precautionary quarantine.

FBI Is Asked To Hunt Man In Morals Probe

PORTSMOUTH, July 3—The FBI has been asked today to join in a search for one of two men who allegedly abducted a 16-year-old Tongs, Ky., girl and held her prisoner for a month.

The girl was identified by Sheriff Burl Justice of Scioto County as Betty Jean Martin. The sheriff found the girl late Saturday in West Portsmouth.

He said the girl identified her abductors as Everett Scaggs, 23, and Ernest Riley, 33, both of Tongs. The girl told Sheriff Justice that Scaggs forced her to have improper relations with him.

Riley was arrested last night, but Scaggs was reported by the girl to have fled to Texas. Under a threat of death, the men allegedly took the girl to Siloam and Greenup, Ky., and Portsmouth, Delaware and Mansfield, O.

Riley said the girl accompanied them voluntarily. He said she was "in love" with Scaggs and when they returned her to her home she refused to leave the car. Riley said he and Scaggs finally left the girl with her relatives in Willmore, Ky. He denied that either he or Scaggs had intimate relations with the girl.

Riley voluntarily accompanied Greenup County Sheriff Brock Large before Judge William Adkins in Greenup to face a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Scaggs is wanted on a similar charge.

20 Are Injured As Bus Upsets

BOWLING GREEN, July 3—Twenty persons were injured yesterday near here when a Columbus-to-Detroit Greyhound bus overturned.

The driver, James Charles Riddle, 29, of Detroit, told state highway patrolmen he was attempting to negotiate a short curve on a downgrade when the bus swerved to the left side of the road and struck a culvert. The vehicle skidded to the side and overturned.

The bus was 11 miles from Bowling Green when the accident occurred. It was the second of three sections which left Columbus at 4:25 a. m. and was running an hour behind schedule because of the heavy influx of holiday travelers.

And He Never Saw The Game

CLEVELAND, July 3—That old saw about haste making waste haunted Earl Stanton today.

Stanton, enroute from his Canton home to the ball game in Cleveland Stadium yesterday, blazed a trail down Route 21 with police cruisers from four suburbs—Brecksville, Independence, Cuyahoga Heights and Newburgh Heights.

Stanton was taken back to jail in three of the four suburbs to face speeding charges after being halted by Police Chief Frank W. Novak of Newburgh Heights.

The Canton motorist is scheduled to complete his itinerary to Brecksville authorities today.

Political Tiff Being Aired At VFW Confab

COLUMBUS, July 3—Results of a political squabble within the ranks of the delegates attending the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention here will be determined today.

A rollcall will be made to determine whether Akron or Cincinnati will be the site of the 1951 convention.

George E. Tyack, Columbus attorney and encampment general committee chairman, yesterday broke a precedent by openly announcing his candidacy for the department commander's post.

The office now held by John H. Ende of Akron should, by general practice, go to I. F. Judkins of Lima, the senior vice-commander.

However, Tyack and his supporters claim that Judkins is "tied up politically" with the faction which seeks to have the 1951 convention in Akron.

Tyack contended that Judkins had refused to give the assurance that he would not favor Akron in his appointments. Tyack asserted:

"We feel there is an unhealthy concentration of power in and around Akron. Last year, we lost approximately 7,000 members because of it."
